

English Subject Knowledge

Working with children is tough enough, but sprinkle into the mix a 201-page key stage 1 and 2 National Curriculum with its heavy content and lengthy, technical appendices, and the level of challenge increases even further.

This workshop is an opportunity for teachers and TAs to build confidence in their own subject knowledge and consider how they can transfer this confidence to their pupils. This is a fun, practical, no-nonsense course which will clarify conjunctions, simplify the subjunctive and help colleagues to fathom out their fronted adverbials.

A key message will be to embed the skills across the curriculum, and colleagues will experience a range of ideas for spelling, grammar, reading, writing, thinking, talking and listening – and how these can be applied to raise standards in their classroom.
